HOPE FOR AMICABLE SETTLEMENT OF CITY WATER RATE FADES

Vice President of Company Tells Officials There Is No Chance for Reduction In Charges.

PROSPECTS of settling the Marion water rate problem through amicable negotiations between the city and operators of the Marion Water Co faded last night when official of the American Waterworks & Electric Co New York concern that operates the local company told Mayor F C Smith and members of the water and ordinance and franchise committees of city council there could be no reduction in the present rates. The committees met with George W Biggs vice president of the American company and John H Murdoch of Washington, Pa attorney for the company in Mayor Smith's office following a meeting of city council.

A two hour and a half discussion of the water rate problem failed to produce a solution that was acceptable to the city and the water men.

Mayor Smith said today he could see no advantage in arranging another conference with the water company officials and said he will call a meeting of the council committees for Thursday night to study the problems discussed last night and also consider the advisability of the city building a municipal water plant. We want to study this water problem from every angle the mayor said and arrive at a solution that will be most acceptable to the citizens of Marion. He said the public will be informed on every development and invited suggestions for a solution of the problem.

Present at last nights meeting in addition to Mayor Smith Mr Biggs and Mr Murdoch were George Whysall manager of the Marion Water Co City Solicitor Ralph E Carhart Council President R. C Snare City Clerk Harry Brookshire and Councilmen Robert H Stief W M Fabian Clarence Hart, Welcome P Cass Jr., Harry D Cahill Basil Williams William A Shuster and D F Bigger. Hart Cass Snare Williams and Shuster left before the end of the meeting.

Slight Concession

The water company made what the mayor termed a slight concession. Mr Biggs indicated that the company would be willing to make a relatively cheap rate to domestic water users for all water used during June July and August of each year in excess of the average consumption for the balance of the year. He said the company would be willing to do this to induce residents to use more water in sprinkling their lawns. The rate he had in mind Mr Biggs said is 12 cents a hundred cubic feet for the excess water used. That will give residents four times as much water for sprinkling their lawns as they now use he declared.

Lawn sprinkling is the only possible place where the domestic consumer can use more water than he now uses and we feel that this concession will solve his minimum rate complaint Mr Biggs declared.

After more than an hour of discussion Mr Biggs suggested that the city and water company place the rate problem in the hands of the state utilities commission for solution. He suggested that the utilities commission be asked to place a fair valuation on the property of the company and set a fair rate accordingly. Neither you Mayor Smith nor I will give testimony or argument before the commission but will let them set the valuation and make the rate Mr Biggs said.

Mayor Objects

The mayor quickly voiced his objection to this suggestion. He declared that the utilities commission would not give favorable consideration to the city's stand "You know as well as I how far we'd get with the commission" he said.

Mr Biggs was emphatic in his refusal to consider a reduction in the present water rate. Any reduction from the present rate would mean receivership for the Marion Water Co. You cannot expect us to reduce the rates and deliberately commit financial suicide he declared. Mr Biggs cited increasing taxes and operating expenses as an ever present problem" with which the water company has to contend.

The fairness of a water rate is

PORTSMOUTH O June 23—A company guard was killed and four other persons were injured today in a bullet marked clash of violence between strikers and company guards at the Portsmouth works of the Wheeling Steel Corp. Two of the wounded were company guards.

QUESTION OF BODY IN FIRE UNANSWERED

Sheriff and Coroner Sift Ashes Near Iberia in Search of Bones

Whether a human body was burned in a fire that destroyed a barn on the H F McKibbon farm two miles northwest of Iberia early Sunday morning remained an unanswered question today after county authorities had sifted the ashes.

Deputy Sheriff Gene Geissler who with Dr M F Axtheim county coroner and Sheriff Fred F Miller raked the ashes yesterday afternoon for articles that might indicate whether a person's body had been in the fire said the search yielded only several small pieces of material that might be sections of bones.

Dr Axtheim planned to send the particles along with one raked out of the fire early Sunday by spectators to the state laboratory in Columbus to see if an analysis there would disclose whether any of the pieces were human bone.

In yesterday's checkup authorities said they obtained no new information that might indicate either the possible presence of a person in the burning building or the cause of the fire which broke out Sunday morning shortly after midnight.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O June 23—Gov Martin L. Davey informed the prosecuting attorney of Wayne county Michigan today that he would be glad to give "serious consideration to official information the prosecutor might submit regarding activities of the Black legion in Ohio.

Duncan C. McCrea, the prosecutor, had suggested in a letter that the governor conduct an investigation of the legion in this state. "Michigan is cleaning house," McCrea wrote.

"My investigation tends to establish that the state of Ohio is the headquarters of the ranking officers and the stronghold of the Black legion in a district comprising the states of Ohio, Indiana and Michigan," the prosecutor's letter said.

May was described as the first month since January in which this country had a favorable trade balance. For the five months ending with May total imports exceeded exports by $5,293,000, with the exports amounting to $909,969,000 and imports to $915,262,000.

Council Grants Bus Co. New 10-Year Franchise

Fare Reduction Effective in 30 Days and New Coaches Are Called For.

City council last night granted a 10-year extension of franchises to the Marion Rapid Transit Inc calling for a straight five-cent fare on city busses with a three cent charge for children between six and 12 years of age.

The extension of the franchise was voted unanimously by council members after a brief discussion. The new fares will go into effect in 30 days.

The new bus rate is the lowest in the eight year history of the company which is headed by Ray Maag. In addition to the lowered fares it is also provided in the franchise that the company shall replace its present busses with new ones as soon as possible. The equipment of the company is to consist of five busses of 21 passenger capacity for regular service and three additional coaches for extra service.

Mr Maag said when he asked council for an extension of the ordinance that he hopes to replace two of the five busses next fall and possibly another two in the winter months with 21 passenger Buick coaches powered with six-cylinder motors. Each new bus will weigh about 3,000 pounds less than those now in use.

Routes Unchanged

The routes set forth in the ordinance are the same as at present and the schedules will remain the same for the time being.

The company is required to carry insurance policies covering and protecting persons and property against loss or damage. The policies or bonds shall be in the sum of not less than $5,000 for the injury or death of any one person and not less than the sum of $25,000 for the deaths or injuries of all persons affected by any one accident. Policies totaling $7,000 are required to cover any damage to property.

Mr Maag also said he hopes to purchase the garage on North State street if now rents.

Rates now in effect on the city busses are seven cents for a single fare or three rides for 15 cents. The present fare for children is five cents straight. The transit company inaugurated city bus service in 1925 charging 10 cents a single fare three rides for 25 cents seven for 50 cents and 15 for $1. This was modified to the present rates last year.

Voices Objection

Councilman Robert H Stief voiced an objection to the city busses stopping for passengers in the middle of the street. He suggested that a provision be inserted in the franchise that the busses must pull in the curb to load and unload passengers. Mayor F C Smith and Councilman W M Fabian said they thought the company would adopt this suggestion without incorporating it into the franchise.

Council set July 27 at 7:30 p m as the time for a public hearing on the petition of Jay H. Maish to set the property immediately

By H H HAVILAND

PHILADELPHIA June 23 — Ohios delegation to the Democratic convention in caucus today selected former Lieut Gov Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati and Mrs Mildred Jaster of Cleveland to represent the Buckeye state on the national committee.

Harmony which had been strained yesterday had returned and Sawyer's selection was unanimous. His two opponents Albert A Horstman of Dayton and Walter F Heer of Columbus announced their withdrawal before the caucus convened. All convention committee selections also were made without contests.

The only rivalry was in the selection of the national committee woman. Mrs Jaster was opposed by Mrs Marie Kelterer of Woodsfield. On a secret ballot, Mrs Jaster won by a vote of 58 to 15½. Mrs Margaret Allman state welfare director received one vote.

Hopkins Orders Changes, Including Fact Bonus Should Be Ignored in Fixing Needs.

Insists New Deal Is Main Issue As Thunderous Applause Greets Mention of Roosevelt's Name

By EDWARD J. DUFFY
Associated Press Staff Writer

CONVENTION HALL, PHILADELPHIA, June 23—Welcoming the new deal as the paramount campaign issue, the opening session of the Democratic convention trained its guns on Landon and Knox today and paid its respects indirectly to Alfred E Smith.

Salvos of applause seconded a blistering attack on the Republican ticket by Chairman James A. Farley, in which he declared the opposition was trying to face both right and left at the same time, and was backed by "the crew of the duPont Liberty league."

Smith was not mentioned by name, but his forays against the new deal and his activities as an organizer of the league were much in the minds of the assembled thousands.

Shooting out his words from tight-drawn lips the blue-suited Farley roused the delegates to their feet right at the start he started them cheering with this pronouncement:

"The continuance of the new deal is the issue."

Again and again thereafter cheers rocked the great convention hall as Farley lambasted the enemies of the new deal. He was given a special standing ovation at his first mention of the President's name when he said:

"The processes of recovery initiated and carried on by Franklin D Roosevelt shall not be interrupted."

Starts Parade

The outburst developed into the convention's first parade. With the California flag in the lead followed by the standards of Michigan and Rhode Island the marchers moved in and out of the aisles picking up recruits momentarily. Soon every state standard was in the bristling howling line of march.

Down by the Georgia standard there was a tugging and pulling to get the standard loose but it came up at last and fell in to the parade.

Rebel yells punctured the rafters band and organ music intermingled and clashed and the hall became bedlam. It was a typical convention outcroping of tribute to the party leader.

The two Minnesota factions almost had a fight over their standard but it broke in two before either side could get possession. A dispute over which group should be seated permanently in the convention still is unsettled.

The New Yorkers like the Georgians had trouble getting their standard loose from the floor but finally made it this sign toppling askew as it fell into the march.

The first session of the convention recessed at 1:38 p m until 8 p m tonight.

To Answer Challenges

From the moment of the first call to order at 12:01 p m it was clear that the controlling administration leaders were to give militant answer to the challenges coming from right and left for the campaign ahead.

(Other Convention News and Pictures on Pages 4, 7, 9, 14)

A few leaders talked platform. few southerners still hunted forbehind locked doors downtown, a lornly for ways to preserve the two thirds nominating rule—but the only apparent worries for the great majority were ticket worries. Many and rebellious were the complaints of those who could not get into the vaulted convention hall.

Outwardly, at least, it was an all-Roosevelt show. But underneath ran the inevitable tide of speculation about the intention of those who have refused to go along.

Two-Thirds Rule Going

The ranks of those against abandoning the old two-thirds rule dwindled still further during the day when North Carolina decided to cast its strength for repeal. Four years ago it had stood solidly the other way.

An assertion in Boston by Gov. James M Curley that he would accept the vice presidential nomination if it was offered, attracted no serious attention. Gov. Clyde L. Herring of Iowa, who had said he was mentioned for second place on the ticket, already had taken himself out.

Platform Big Problem

The paramount task before the big meeting this week—devoid of all elements of suspense and surprise, but this was not true with the second most important problem—the party platform.

In fact, an air of mystery surrounded it, the press and the delegates had watched all last night for the arrival of Sen. Robert F. Wagner of New York, who was due here with a White House draft.

Wagner, Who Has Roosevelt's Policy Draft, Talks to Wallace About Crop Insurance.

CHANGES BELIEVED MADE

Glass of Virginia Who Hinted at Fight Over Money Plank, Leaves Committee.

By NELSON DENNISON
Associated Press Staff Writer

PHILADELPHIA, June 23 — Amid talk of last minute changes in the White House draft of the Democratic platform, Sen. Robert F Wagner of New York conferred today with Secretary Wallace who has been anxious to include "crop insurance" in the farm plank.

Wagner prospective chairman of the resolutions committee at the national convention had prompted speculation that the Roosevelt draft was being revised by his tardy arrival here from White House conferences.

While Wallace and Wagner conferred the Virginia delegation to the convention elected Gov George C Peery to serve on the resolutions committee in place of Sen Carter Glass who has been a member of every platform committee since 1896.

Too Tired to Serve

Glass had said on his arrival here last night he was too worn out to serve. His retirement from the committee removed one of the most likely sources of controversy, especially over the currency plank.

Secretary Wallace has been represented as eager to have a plank advocating a system of "crop insurance to protect farmers from drouths and other 'acts of God' that destroy crops.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People petitioned the convention today in behalf of a plank favoring federal anti-lynching legislation.

As Wagner talked with Wallace, word came from his room that he did not bring from the White House a complete platform draft.

MARKET BUCKS PROFIT TAKING

Few Industrial Issues Even Show Gains Under Realizing Pressure.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 23—Stocks ran the profit taking gauntlet in today's market without serious injury to the majority.

In fact, a few industrial specialties came through with gains of fractions to around a point.

Steady to higher were Douglas Aircraft, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, International Nickel, Allied Chemical, Motor Products, Commercial Investment Trust, Seaboard Oil, Texas Corp., Sears Roebuck, National Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, United Aircraft and Kennecott.

J. I. Case dropped about 3. The rails were soft, Santa Fe, New York Central, Union Pacific, Great Northern and Northern Pacific were in supply. Chrysler recorded a new 6-year top before meeting resistance and reversing itself. Other losers up to a point or so included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Union Carbide, Westinghouse, Owens-Illinois, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, American Telephone, Western Union North American and American Water Works.

Bonds were irregular. Wheat exhibited fresh strength while cotton eased. Foreign gold currencies were inclined to drift lower in terms of the dollar.

Although the bank of France reduced its discount rate from 6 to 5 per cent, the franc was .00¾ of a cent easier at the beginning of foreign exchange transactions. Sterling was unchanged at $5.01⅝.

PROFIT TAKING CLIPS WHEAT PRICE RISE

Gains Up to Four Cents Based on Drouth Conditions Precede Realizing.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 23—Big profit taking sales on advances caused wheat to recel late today, and lose the greater part of overnight gains that in some places amounted to 4 cents a bushel.

The maximum bulge was at Minneapolis. Intensified drouth together with predictions of a return of abnormal heat northwest formed the chief stimulus to skyrocketing of values.

Wheat closed irregular, ¼ lower to ½ higher compared with yesterday's finish, July 95¾@¾, Sept. 86½@86¾, corn ¼@½ up, Sept. 64¾@¾, oats unchanged to ¼ advanced, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents down.

The staff of workers which may reach 40 when the program is in full swing met yesterday and today for preliminary instructions and will go Wednesday to Ohio Wesleyan university for an intensive three day period of training.

Another important development yesterday was the decision of the advisory committee and other representatives of Marion civic organizations to sponsor a tag day Saturday to raise local funds for the program. If $150 to $200 can be obtained in this way Marion can do much to aid in the program the federal government is backing to the extent of approximately $7 500.

NEGOTIATIONS ON WATER RATES OPEN

determined how much the company can afford to reduce rates of its property in Marion Later City Manager Biggs stated that only the rate of return would be considered. Mr Biggs stated that the lower rates would be put into effect if the company earned a return of seven per cent on the valuation of its property in Marion. The present rate of return has been generally reduced to six per cent with one and one half per cent added.

The Marion Water Co earns only a five per cent return which includes hydrant rental tremills for which the city is not paying. Mr Biggs contended. This return certainly does not leave much leeway for any reduction in rates he said and the company could not maintain effort if it did reduce them. He declared that the rate cut in Marion was made in 1930 on the initiative of city council because consumers and council demanded the installation of a water softening system.

Discuss Business

The mayor and Mr Biggs discussed the loss of business suffered by the water company when industrial consumers here began building their own water plants. Mr Biggs said Marion Industries can obtain cheaper water by operating their own plants because the water is available on the sites of the concerns. Most of the industrial concerns he said can use hard water.

Operation of the water company's softening process costs more than the industrial concerns spend to provide their own water he declared. We can't compete against that situation and I want to say that if we'd reduce the water rate by half we wouldn't get a nickle's worth more business from those industries Mr Biggs declared.

Solicitor Carhart asked the water company men why the domestic users should be penalized because the company has lost industrial concern business. Mr Biggs replied that the water company has stood that loss and not the domestic consumer. The company is being penalized in that it is earning a return one per cent less than the six per cent allowed he asserted. The rates went up here in 1930 because the company was forced by users and by the city administration to install a softening plant and not because we lost the business of the industrial concerns Mr Biggs said.

Cost of Home Wells

Mayor Smith declared that the citizens of Marion can obtain cheaper water by digging their own wells. He said he had obtained figures from a reliable plumbing firm on the cost of wells. A community well for 1 users could be drilled at a cost of about $125 a home he said. It would be a six inch well 100 feet deep he added. Mr Biggs asserted that depreciation and maintenance of private wells would run the cost to more than consumers now pay for their water.

The mayor questioned this and said that if the water rate is not reduced substantially he felt that there will be many wells drilled in Marion. I would rather not see it he said but what are the people to do? Mr Biggs said he has had wide experience with the well drilling proposition in other communities and that the water consumers find out their wells are costing them more than they anticipated and consequently give it up and again buy their water from the water companies. I have had more experience with this situation than you have Mayo and I know what I'm talking about.

Mayor Smith again pointed out that the Marion Water Co in considering business among industrial concerns and presented figures to show the drop in company receipts from the three plus 1925 the water company earned approximately $40 000 from water sold to industrial consumers he said. In 1929 it earned about the same amount and in 1932 it dropped to $23 000. And in 1934 the mayor said the water company received from industry had dropped to $6 165.

Fire Represents Loss

Mr Biggs said most of the loss was represented when the general load carried to be a consumer.

And he pointed out that loss has fallen on commercial users in Marion and not on the water company the mayor declared.

As I pointed out awhile ago the Marion Water Co has borne this loss in that he return on our investment is only five per cent. Mr Biggs shot back.

Mr Whysall asserted that the water company has lost only one big consumer—the Erie railroad. The rate increase he said did not reduce the number of commercial and domestic consumers.

Mr Whysall suggested that the discussion of the rate problem be started with the question of how much the city can and is willing to pay for fire hydrant rental. Mayor Smith said the city would not start the discussion from that point. The water company men pointed out that on last Jan 1 the city owed the company $27 000 in back hydrant rental.

Just what arrangements is the city going to make to pay that amount Mr Whysall asked. He again suggested that the rate negotiations begin at that point and declared that if there would be a reduction in hydrant rental domestic rates would be boosted.

Mr Whysall's statement was the only reference made to a possible water rate increase.

Mayor Smith said that the principal complaint from domestic consumers is the amount of water included in the minimum set by the company. Marion residents now pay a $1 50 minimum bill and are permitted to use 300 cubic feet of water.

Suggests Increase

The mayor suggested that the company increase the amount of water allowed for the minimum bill to 500 cubic feet. The water men quickly pointed out that this would be the same as a rate reduction and that it could not be considered. The saving of only a few cents a month by each water consumer means bankruptcy for this company Mr Biggs declared. He said he did not feel $1 50 is too much for any consumer to pay for water. Out of 6 600 water consumers in Marion about 4 000 pay not more than the minimum bill each month Mr Biggs declared.

Mayor Smith said he questioned whether the Marion Water Co is worth much more than a million dollars. I would not consider buying the plant until I obtained an unbiased engineer's report of its actual worth he declared. It was pointed out by Mr Biggs that the engineering firm of Charles De Leuw and Co of Chicago placed a valuation of $1 640 000 on the Marion Water Co property when it appraised the plant at the time the city was considering its purchase. He said he thought this figure was concurred in by the state utilities commission.

Mayor Smith said that the per capita consumption of water in Marion is less (in gallons used daily) than in 20 other Ohio cities on which he has figures. The per capita consumption here he said is 38 gallons daily and the city with the next to lowest consumption is 70 gallons daily. Mr Biggs said the per capita consumption depends a great deal on how much water is sold to industrial concerns. He said that in Ohio industries are supplied by water companies and consumption is a great deal less.

Discuss Softening Plant

The mayor and Mr Biggs briefly discussed Mr Murdoch briefly discussed the process of softening the water and the cost. Mr Biggs gave figures on the cost of operating the softening system.

Mr Biggs also pointed out that in 1935 the Marion Water Co pumped 351 gallons of water into the mains. Seventy five per cent of the water was sold and 30 per cent mainly through leakage reading of meters etc.

During the discussion the per capita consumption for water rates in other Ohio cities was declared that a comparison of rates is meaningless as water plants are alike. The Ashtabula the water is from Lake Erie which is cheaper process the pumping it from wells as is done in Marion Biggs said the Ashtabula company which is operated by American Waterworks & Electric Co earns seven per cent on its plant valuation. The American concern also operates the Marion waterworks. At the time of the meeting Mr Biggs said the Community Water Service of New York is still the owner of the Marion Water Co—the latter was not sold as announced in Marion. The American Waterworks & Electric Co the Community company has merged for management purposes and the former is marketing local water company here.

Hints At New Plant

The mayor gave a hint that the city may consider building a municipal waterworks plant. Frankly about all is a question of whether the city would be satisfied with any which isn't a substantial reduction from the present one. However it is probable the public will know this city administration will go another way out unless the rates are reduced. The mayor said he and council will have to consider all possible solutions to the problem.

What we want is a lower water rate in Marion the mayor told the water company official.

Mayor I certainly wish we could give it to you but we cannot Mr Biggs replied.

Those words from Mayor Smith and the water company officials represent the present standpoint of the city administration and the Marion Water Co operators on the rate reduction question in Marion. The next step according to Mr Whysall is up to the city.

MARION CCC YOUTHS AFTER SCHOLARSHIPS

Graduates of High School Here Rate High in Oregon Camp Tests.

Three Marion youths who were graduated in the same class from Harding High school in 1934 and now are in an Oregon CCC camp are representing their company in competitive examinations offered by a number of colleges and technical schools, according to a news report today.

The youths, Roland McKee of 251 Elm street, Donald Fleshner of 353 Mary street and William Mezay of 180 Pearl street, were selected to compete as the highest rated men in their company, the report said. Psychological and intelligence examinations and essays were essential parts of the scholarship trials.

After the papers are graded, the district CCC commander will make his recommendations to the schools offering the scholarships. Among the schools are the University of Oregon, Oregon State college, Oregon Institute of Technology at Portland, California School of Fine Arts at San Francisco, California College of Arts and Crafts at Oakland and the Heald Engineering College at San Francisco.

The three Marion contestants are members of Company No. 544, located at Camp Lava Beds, Merrill, Ore.

CONVENTION DELEGATES IN GOOD HUMOR

Judging by their jovial expressions, the Republican party must have been the butt of the joke which caused all the merriment on the part of Representative Caroline O'Day of New York and Senator Hugo Black of Alabama, top, at the Democratic convention in Philadelphia. One of the better known veterans present was Josephus Daniels, ambassador to Mexico shown below, conversing with his son, Jonathon, who accompanied him as a convention observer. IMMUNITY SEATS

Two Ohio men prominent in politics, John G. Breslin and Clement L. Vallandigham, were forced into exile in Canada.

Breslin was one time the state treasurer of Ohio. A shortage was discovered in his accounts after he was out of office, and had gone to Canada. When it looked as though Ohio would try to force his delivery for punishment, he sailed for Europe where he died.

Expelled for alleged operations in sympathy with the Confederacy, Vallandigham reached Bermuda and thence by ocean route, Canada, where he established his headquarters in Windsor. From there he directed his campaign for election as governor of Ohio, for which he had been nominated in exile, by Ohio Democrats. John Brough defeated him by 100,000 votes.

The Stars Say--

For Wednesday, June 24

ACCORDING TO the lunar transits bearing rule on the affairs of this day, there is likely to be a rather sudden opportunity for making a radical change of unusual importance to the career, with strange environs, interests and associations.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very important year, with fresh opportunities for entering into new employment, strange lines, and amid desirable surroundings and affiliations, business as well as romantic and social. However, there is some portent of misconstruction, distortion or irregularity in connection with papers, letters, writings or contracts, so precaution is enjoined.

A child born on this day may be mentally brilliant, adaptable and quite original as well as independent in thought and action. It may travel and succeed far from its birthplace.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS NEW TAX BILL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 23—President Roosevelt today signed the new tax bill and the $100,000,000 interior department appropriation bill.

Signing of the long controverted tax measure, designed to raise $800,000,000 through a sweeping revision of corporate taxes and other levies, cleared the President's desk of major legislation passed by the congress just gone home.

Signing of the deficiency bill carrying $1,425,000,000 for relief, and the omnibus flood control measure authorizing a $320,000,000 program in 40 states cut further yesterday into the pile of bills awaiting White House action.

Action on the relief item assured continued federal jobs for 2,300,000 persons listed as unemployed on relief or certified as "in need of relief."

MERCHANTS TO GET SIDEWALK ESTIMATES

Cost Figures on Proposed Uptown Improvement To Be Sent Out.

The retail merchants' division of the Marion Chamber of Commerce decided at a meeting this morning to consider the WPA project for reconstructing uptown sidewalks but to make no effort to get sentiment of merchants on the program until they have been notified what their share of the cost would be.

W. D. Brown, Chamber secretary, said he will send a letter to merchants giving in detail the estimates of cost to business men as prepared by T. S. Cathers, city engineer.

The cost to merchants, Mr. Brown said, has been computed by the city engineer to be 10 cents a square foot. He said the average uptown business place has a 20-foot frontage and a walk 12 feet wide, which would make the average business man's cost of a new four-inch concrete walk $24.

Earl T. Smart, chairman of the retail division, said he felt confident merchants will be much more interested in the project when they learn they can get new walks for such a low cost.

City Engineer Cathers was quoted by Mr. Brown as saying merchants who would pay 10 cents a square foot for new walks would have an opportunity to get a rebate if enough business places had walks poured. Rebates would be made possible through quantity purchases of materials, he explained.

Mr. Smart said the retail division probably will be asked to meet later this week to express sentiment on the project after learning details of the cost of the $31,531 program for new walks, approved Saturday by WPA officials in Washington, D. C.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 23—Here are highlights from the speech of Chairman James A. Farley of the Democratic national committee opening the national convention today:

"The continuance of the new deal is the issue."

"Is the nation to move forward or is it to turn backward to the old dealers of such recent and bitter memory?"

"No one of us dares to do less than his utmost toward swelling the majority that will testify to the national desire that the processes of recovery, initiated and carried on by Franklin D. Roosevelt, shall not be interrupted."

"Our party will remain in power as long as its ideals and purposes do not deviate from the straight path of public service."

"The minority party has, by force of circumstance, been compelled to adopt a platform unsurpassed in the history of party declarations for platitudes and vague promises."

"They (the Republicans) are going to relieve poverty, without spending money, provide jobs without it costing industry anything, and bring happiness and contentment to everybody—some day."

GUARD KILLED IN PORTSMOUTH STRIKE

gine and flat car. The food, intended for employes who had been besieged for weeks by pickets in a rod and wire mill across the street from the main plant, was scattered about the streets.

It marked the first real violence that has occurred in connection with the strik which was called by the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers.

The plant has been closed down since the strike call, throwing 5,500 men out of work.

The union sought the right to act as bargaining agent for all employes, asked dissolution of department councils and wage increases.

Refuse To Sign Accord

Refusing to sign a closed shop agreement, company officials challenged an order of the national labor relations board, ordering abandonment of the department councils, and asserted that the labor board lacked constitutional authority to enforce the order.

There have been several bombings and assaults on non-union workers since the strike began, but none occurred at the plant and no one was seriously injured. Several persons have been arrested.

Reached by telephone, attaches in offices of the steel plant said C. C. Caudill, general manager, was not available and that no one could speak for him.

175 Stay in Plant

Since the strike has been under way about 175 men and women, mostly office employes and plant executives, have remained in the plant day and night.

None has been permitted by pickets to enter or leave the three-mile long plant except during negotiations between union leaders, company officials and R. M. Pilkington, U. S. labor conciliator, who was sent here.

Strike leaders have stated frequently that their men had been warned against acts of violence.

When the locomotive, manned by company guards, started across West street it was met by a withering stream of bullets from pistols and rifles.

Sheriff Oakes asserted that the guards were ambushed by gunmen hidden in a string of empty box cars on a siding, near where the guards tried to transport the food from one part of the company's property to another.

Says Affray Premeditated

"I have evidence and statements to show the shooting was premeditated," Oakes declared. "People were warned to stay out of sight.

"When the locomotive started across the street a man with a newspaper waved it in the air and dropped his hands to his side. That was the signal for the men in the box car to start shooting."

The box cars bordered the Ohio river bank, which also parallels a portion of the company property. Oakes said gun-wielders were stationed along the bank.

Bullets traveled throughout the length of West street, lodging in homes and stores and in a hill at the end of the street.

FARLEY LAUNCHES PARTY CONVENTION

of the platform. But Wagner, the prospective platform committee chairman, did not arrive until today.

The delay aroused speculation that the outline of party and new deal policy might be undergoing drastic ravision at the hands of President Roosevelt in view of recent political developments, including the Lemke third party movement and the Al Smith invitation to the Democratic delegates to discard Mr. Roosevelt and the new deal.

Whether the Democratic high command now would abandon all efforts to win over the Al Smith school of thought and concentrate on those farther to the left, or whether an attempt to harmonize "left" and "right" would be made —those were queries which the platform might answer.

With this in mind, observers awaited with special interest the planks on money, labor, monopoly and constitutional questions.

Some disputes within the platform committee seemed likely, but Sen. Carter Glass of Virginia, critic of some new deal policy, will not be in the thick of things there, as he has been at every convention for 40 years. Glass said he felt too worn out from congressional labors to serve on the committee.

His announcement carried implications that his monetary suggestions may have been rejected. Asked if the platform draft contained his views he said it did not. He expressed the opinion it would contain something about "free silver." This is bad medicine to Glass but a tonic to Sen. Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma.

Want Unit Rule Ended

Some southerners, including Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, demanded that if the two thirds rule is to go, the Democrats also should abolish rules requiring state delegations to vote as a unit. They contended this would be necessary to prevent a minority from actually nominating a president some day.

In meetings of state delegations Roosevelt forces stressed the harmony keynote, and in one instance they made a major move to remove discord within the official party command. The Georgia delegation tossed Gov. Eugene Talmadge, the new deal's enemy, off the national committee, replacing him with Clark Howell Sr., of Atlanta, friend of the President.

Chairman Farley opened the convention with an assertion that the sole issue of the coming presidential campaign was the continuance of the new deal.

To this he added a lashing attack upon both the nominees and the platform of the Republican party and a charge that they were the product of an effort to appear conservative in the east and liberal in the west.

Hits Liberty League

"Behind the Republican ticket," he added, "is the crew of the du Pont Liberty league and their allies, which have so far financed every undercover agency that has disgraced American politics with their appeals to race prejudice, religious intolerance, and personalities so gross that they had to be repudiated even by the regular Republican organization."

With these assertions he coupled extended praise for the accomplishments of the new deal and a prediction that the Democratic platform would be one to which the resolutions committee could commit itself "without laughing and swallow without choking."

"The continuance of the new deal is the issue," Farley shouted to the delegates at the very outset of his remarks.

"The question before the American people is clearcut and can not be disguised. That question is: Shall we continue the new deal which has rescued our country from disaster and despair or shall the government be turned back to the old dealers who wrecked it? There you have the issue stripped of all camouflage."

Asks Strong Drive

Calling upon the party for a vigorous campaign toward the goal of a tremendous Roosevelt majority he asserted "that verdict must be so overwhelming, so conclusive, so compelling that nobody can doubt that the county is united in its determination that there shall be no backward step in our progress."

The platform adopted by the Republicans at Cleveland, he said was "unsurpassed in the history of party declarations for platitudes and vague promises," and again he said:

"Nobody takes the Cleveland platform seriously—not even our political adversaries."

Had the Republicans been sincere he continued they would have renominated former President Hoover who, Farley said "represents the classical attitude of their party, and then he would have had a direct and frank contest before the American people of the new deal and the old deal."

But they "passed him up," Farley added, "despite his impassioned stampeding scheme which naturally failed, for you can not stampede an elephant securely chained to the picket posts of evasion and straddling."

Says Borah Too Liberal

Or, he continued, the Republicans could have chosen Sen Borah, "but he was earmarked with the stigma of liberalism." He added:

"So they had to find a candidate whom they could present as conservative enough to meet the specifications of the du pont Liberty leaguers in the east, while appearing fiercely liberal in the west.

"But the leaguers will never gain the prize. The real new deal, sane and orderly—not wild, visionary, socialistic or communistic creation of its enemies' imagination —will sail serenely to the goal of complete recovery, and at its helm that calm, capable and courageous commander, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

DEMOCRATS SELECT SAWYER, MRS. JASTER

urer W. A. Julian of Cincinnati, and Mrs. Juster will succeed Mrs. Bernice S. Pyke of Cleveland, customs collector there. Neither Julian nor Mrs. Pyke was eligible for re-election because of President Roosevelt's order against federal office holders being members of the national committee.

Sawyer was nominated for the post by State Chairman Francis W. Poulson. The nomination was seconded by Julian.

Under Secretary of the Interior Charles West of Granville was elected chairman of the delegation and Poulson secretary. Sen. Robert J. Bulkley was chosen for membership on the resolutions committee to help draft the platform.

Other convention assignments were: Committee on permanent organization, former Gov. George White; rules and order of business, W. W. Durbin of Kenton; credentials, Francis W. Poulson; to notify the presidential nominee, Sen. Vic Donahey and Mrs. Ann Makley of Dayton; to notify the vice president, Earl H. Hanefeld of Ottawa, and Miss Margaret Allman of Canton.

Col. Joseph H. Dowling of Dayton, aged 88 years, and who has attended every convention since 1876, was named honorary vice president of the convention. Mrs. Mae Klepfer of Bucyrus was named an honorary assistant vice president.

The former lieutenant governor had the backing generally of the federal wing of the party, while Horatman was supported chiefly by the state organization controlled by Gov. Martin L. Davey and State Chairman Francis W. Poulson. Beer was understood to be the choice of Sen. Vic Donahey.

Former Lieut. Gov. William G. Pickrel of Dayton, Horatman's chief lieutenant in the committee fight, said many delegates opposed Sawyer's selection because they considered it would be "too great a slap at Gov. Davey" to choose him. Sawyer for a time opposed the governor for renomination.

Efforts at harmony prevailed at a dinner given last evening to the delegation by Harry Newman, son of the late John Henry Newman, for many years state librarian. Gen. Robert J. Bulkley urged that "honest differences be settled and then forgotten." He Sawyer and others urged the election of Gov. Davey along with President Roosevelt.

Sen. Bulkley also aired his views on what the national platform should contain, the possible effect of the new union party and those who "take a walk."

"It's too early," he said, "to appraise the effects of the third party in Ohio. It probably will cause no worry, but we must face the problem on the theory that it will take more votes from the Democrats than from the Republicans."

The senior Ohio senator predicted that the platform, which he hopes to have a hand in drafting as the Ohio member of the resolutions committee, will call for adoption of constitutional amendments that will permit the enactment of social legislation and better regulation of monopolies.

Sen. Bulkley said there was no news in the threat of "an ex-Democratic candidate for president and an ex-secretary of state and other ex-Democrats threatening to take a walk. They already have taken a walk which brings about the possibility of a fourth party that would take more votes from the Republicans than from the Democrats."

ROOSEVELT FRIEND REPLACES TALMADGE

Governor's Post as National Committeeman Shifted to Atlanta Editor.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 23—Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, for many months a political gadfly to the new deal, today was on the way out of the party's national councils and a Georgia friend of President Roosevelt was on the way in.

The post of national committeeman held by Talmadge was transferred by the Georgia delegation to Clark Howell Sr., editor and president of the Atlanta Constitution, subject to ratification by the national convention.

Not until the end of the present convention does the title change hands and technically Talmadge would be permitted to participate this week in the councils of the national committee, where each state is represented.

But Talmadge did not come to the convention, sending Carlton Mobley, his executive secretary, to represent him at the governors' dinner given as part of the convention program.

Before the delegation left for the convention the Georgia governor offered to come to Philadelphia if he could be "of service" to his party or to the country. Earlier he had pledged support to the nominees of the convention and indorsed the platform in advance, asserting that his fight on the administration would be conducted within the party.

Supporters of President Roosevelt within the Georgia delegation moved Howell into line for the post after W. K. Page, president of the R. W. Page Corp., publishers of the Columbus, Ga., Ledger and Enquirer, had advanced the name of Sen. George. The senator withdrew his name.

"I am proud of the part I have played in sending our governor to the woods," said Howell, "and I am going to do my best to keep him there from now until the fall elections are over."

PLATFORM FRAMERS DISCUSSING PLANKS

His Journey Delayed

It was recalled that the New York senator had planned to come to Philadelphia last Friday. Then his trip was postponed to Sunday. Apparently authentic word was passed out almost every hour yesterday that he was due "in a few minutes."

Many times during the intervening period he has been reported at the White House conferring with the President. Expectant platform makers here have disclosed meanwhile any knowledge of what changes, if any, were being made in the platform.

Speculation has centered on possible changes in the labor, monopoly, and constitutional planks. There has been talk of a last minute change to include a constitutional amendment plank, but it has been discounted by informed leaders.

Whatever the White House suggestions turn out to be, they were almost assured a friendly reception by the makeup of the platform committee.

New Deal Leaders In Charge

A committee made up largely of the senators who have steered the new deal program through congress was being formed to pass on the platform.

It was believed in some quarters that the platform would make few concessions to the "conservative" wing of the party, but would be designed to hold the "liberals" in line.

The makeup of the platform committee also added strength to this view. Among the senators already chosen to serve were such new deal supporters as Byrnes of South Carolina, Wheeler of Montana, Thomas of Oklahoma, Murphy of Iowa, O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Black of Alabama, and Pope of Idaho as well as Wagner.

All the platform talk among arriving delegates here indicates that the chief pressure on the platform makers would be from the "left."

Utah Discusses Silver

The Utah delegation was meeting in caucus to discuss a silver plank. A. S. Brown, national committeeman-elect, said he had assurance from party leaders the west would be liberally treated in regard to the white metal.

Sen. Thomas said he could offer a plank proposed by Gov. E. W. Marland of Oklahoma, declaring it the "duty of the government" to provide "employment at fair wages in useful public work to all able bodied men who are not needed in productive occupations."

Thomas also was ready to support the demands of some farm organizations for a monetary plank looking toward a managed currency to stabilize the dollar.

Several labor union spokesmen wanted a declaration for a constitutional amendment to permit minimum wage legislation for women; a shorter work week, and a requirement that a two thirds vote of the supreme court would be necessary to invalidate legislation.

Some farm organizations were asking for crop control and a variety of other agricultural aids in addition to managed currency.

Anthony Caprino was Mr. Maniaci's best man. Completing the wedding party were Charles Caprino, Dominic Sangolin, Anthony Caserta and Anthony Rizzo.

The bride's gown was of white satin and was made with a train. She wore a long wedding veil and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses showered with ribbon. The bridesmaids' gowns, fashioned alike, were of pink organza and they wore large white hats. Their flowers were arm bouquets of Briarcliff roses and delphinium.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents to 150 guests. Later Mr. and Mrs. Maniaci left on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls. The bride wore for traveling a suit in a tan shade with accessories in harmonizing tones.

MURDER TONIGHT

BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

(Copyright, 1936, Lawrence W. Meynell)

Synopsis: Inspector Hylton and Scotland Yard, and Sergeant White are about to begin an investigation of old Arthur Burdett's murder at Hope Enderton, guided by Burdett's unprepossessing executrix. The occasion for the investigation is the murder of Burdett, and the curious fact about the murder is that almost everybody in the village is secretly rather relieved that the old miser has been done in. The house is large, but mostly unused, and the atmosphere is eerie.

CHAPTER TEN.
Cold Blast.

ENDERTON COURT was built in the mid period of Victorian ostentatiousness. 1840 saw the foundations dug, a year and half later the place was finished. It was a multiplicity of rooms and great lengths of cheerless corridor, which possibly did not matter so much in the days when servants were cheap and plentiful.

Such a place needs life and plenty of it, if it is to be at all bearable, and for half a generation Enderton Court had known little enough life. In one corner of it a savage, inward-eating spirit had sat jealously huddled over an occasional spark of begrudged fire, and somewhere in the outer regions a servant or two had passed a cold and comfortless existence; for the rest its big rooms were sheeted and silent.

It looked doubly deserted now as the three man made their way about. Even Inspector Hylton felt a certain eeriness from that damp, deserted mausoleum.

They inspected the ground floor thoroughly.

"Even a house agent would have a job to describe this in glowing terms," was Hylton's comment; "now what about the upstairs?"

"This way, Mister," Lumsdale said briefly, leading the way up the fine wide staircase.

"This is where the old man slept, and my room's three doors along."

Inspection was duly made of two bedrooms, which Hylton privately thought must be as bleak and uninviting as ever any human beings slept in.

"And the other rooms?" he queried.

"All empty. Bits of furniture in some of 'em; old boxes and the like, but for the most part empty."

"Well, we'll poke our heads in," the inspector said cheerily, and they duly poked their heads in to find only too dismal a verification of Lumsdale's account.

"Can't say I altogether blame you for not falling in love with the place," was Hylton's comment.

"This part's all right," Lumsdale said. "We can go in the other wing if you've a mind."

"I've a mind to everything," Hylton assured him. "That's my one besetting sin in life—curiosity. Which way?"

"This way, Mister." Lumsdale led them down a long corridor which turned sharply to the right at its end. "This is where all the servants used to sleep when the house was full like, I suppose."

"Anything interesting here?"

"Nothing as I've ever heard of, Mister."

Kingsley Hylton was last out of the third bleak bedroom they visited and for a moment, the sergeant with the lantern being down the corridor, was virtually in darkness.

"Hallo," he cried sharply, "who's opened a window?"

Neither of the men ahead seemed to hear him. "Who's opened a window?" he called out more loudly, and there seemed to be a sort of sardonic satisfaction in the voice that floated back, "No windows been opened here for long enough."

It was an assurance that did not satisfy the inspector. "Fetch the lamp back and let's have a look," he ordered, and the three men made a silently thorough inspection of all the windows they could find. All were fastened, many shuttered.

"Why, did you hear something Inspector?" Sergeant White asked.

"No, I didn't hear anything," Hylton answered, "I just wondered." He caught sight for an instant of the grin on Lumsdale's queer face, and not for anything would he have added that for a brief space, ten seconds or more maybe, as he had stood alone in the darkness, he had felt across his cheek a chill, damp blast of air.

"Anything else you want to see?" Lumsdale asked when they regained the hall.

"No, I don't think so. Not at present. When's the inquest, Sergeant?"

"Friday morning, Inspector."

"Um. We shall see what that brings out."

"I can tell you that now, Mister," Lumsdale said, a trifle unexpectedly. "Nothing."

A considerable experience of inquests inclined Kingsley Hylton privately to agree with this monosyllabic prophecy, but he did not say so; instead he said.

"Just tell me about that chain on the front door, Lumsdale, I'm not quite clear about that."

"Simple enough. Whenever I went out and old Burdett was alone all the back was shut up and locked, like I've told you. I had to see to that. Then after I'd gone and banged the front door behind me, the old boy put the chain up."

"Was it on when you came back?"

"Last Monday night d'you mean?"

"No, any ordinary night."

"Yes. I'd ring the bell and the old man would come shuffling over the hall with a candle and open the door two or three inches. Then when he saw who it was, he'd let me in, mostly without a word, and I'd have to put the chain up again after me."

"Now, last Monday night when you went down to fetch Sergeant White, which way did you go out?"

"Tfront."

"Was the chain in place or not?"

"No, I noticed that particular."

"I'm, I see. Well I dont think we need worry you any more tonight. We shall be up in the morning of course. Good night."

"Night."

The inspector found the sharp, frosty night air pleasant after the shuttered dampness of Enderton Court. He was cold and wanted exercise; Sergeant White seemed to be of the same mind and they swung along steadily, for the most part in silence.

Once Hylton said, breaking a long silence. "Do you believe in ghosts, sergeant?"

"Yes, sir."

"You do?"

"I've never seen any convincing proof that there aren't any."

"Have you ever seen any convincing proof that two and two make four?"

"Mr. Einstein isn't so sure they do, is he sir?"

Hylton laughed. "Well," he said, "I've never heard of a murder committed by a ghost before. What would you say, sergeant, if it turned out along those lines?"

"It's something I wouldn't care to be mixed up in," James White answered quietly.

The house looked doubly deserted.

Lumsdale blasts a theory about the crime, tomorrow.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Transfusions.

Blood transfusions as a means of relieving certain diseases have been used for years. But it is only within the past quarter of a century that this treatment has been simplified so it can be applied with ease and safety.

Hardly a day passes that a blood transfusion is not given to some patient in a large, modern hospital. It is thought of as a means of saving the life of a patient in need of blood. At times it is used to build up the resistance and strength of a person who is to have a serious operation.

The modern transfusion equipment is a simple and ingenious device. It permits the transfer of blood without pain or discomfort.

Let me assure you that the beneficial effects of a transfusion are likely to be very great. When indicated, this treatment should not be denied any one who needs it. If you have ever seen a patient before a transfusion and then shortly afterward, you will find the change for the better is almost unbelievable. In most instances the patient who needs a transfusion is pale, listless and extremely weak. The skin is yellowish and the lips are without color.

Almost immediately after the administration of blood there is a marked change in the appearance of the patient. The lips now appear reddish in color and the cheeks no longer seem pale and anemic. Of course, this change may only be of short duration and sometimes it is necessary to repeat the transfusion. Often a third or fourth one is given.

By means of the modern transfusion apparatus, the blood is taken directly from the vein of the "donor," being pumped into the vein of the patient. This is known as the direct method of transfusion.

In former years the indirect method was used. In this the blood was obtained from a donor, and after stirring it a certain chemical was added to prevent clotting. Then it was injected into the vein of the patient.

Modern science has so perfected the method of transfusion that no ailment of danger is left. Only certain types of blood can be used and the quality is determined before the transfusion. In addition, the donor or professional giver of blood must report to the health authorities at repeated intervals. He is given periodic health examinations and repeated tests are made of his blood so as to prevent the administration of any diseased or impure blood to the patient.

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Gives Strange Promise of Loan to Brixton.

I WAS SURE of one thing, I told myself, as my memories of Robert Savarin swept to the climax of his death after leaving me half his estate that I might be able to provide for Lillian and Marion if ever they should need it. An incurable romantic himself, he would have looked with favor upon the idyllic young romance of Ronald and Marion, whom he had adored for herself and because she was Lillian's daughter.

He would have poured out his wealth like water to insure her happiness, and he would have considered that saving the self-respect and independence of the boy upon whom her youthful fancy was set an ideal objective for his money.

Logic, based upon my knowledge of the man, backed my conviction; but it was something infinitely stronger than mere logic that made me turn my head as toward a waiting insistent master and murmur inaudibly to Samuel Brixton a solemn promise.

"Yes, Robert, I will lend him the money and thus save Marion's happiness."

Mind Made Up

Dicky would have commented caustically that my "imagination was working overtime," but with my making of the promise, it seemed to me that the eerie presence which had been hovering near me was drifting away, satisfied with my pledge.

I opened my eyes and turned toward Samuel Brixton, who, with the veins standing out upon his forehead, was leaning forward watching me with almost apoplectic disquietude.

"Are you feeling better?" he asked quickly.

"Oh, yes," I answered. "I am perfectly all right now, able to drive on the rest of the way to New Haven. And I think you will be glad to know that I have decided something while I have been resting. I shall lend you the twenty-five thousand dollars out of the funds which I control. I shall not consider the advice of anyone else, even that of my husband. In fact, I am not sure that I shall consult him in the matter. After all, he has no connection whatever with the money I am loaning you. There is only one thing now which might stand in the way, and that not permanently."

"What is that?" he asked abruptly—not rudely, but as if he were being tried beyond his strength by suspense.

"There might be some delay at the bank—I do not anticipate any, but one never knows."

"No," said Samuel Brixton with the feeling born of weathering bank panics, "one never knows, but—you are pretty sure it is all right, aren't you?"

"As sure as I can be until I have the bank draft in my hand," I said cheerfully.

Tell Ronald?

"What do you think?" he asked hesitatingly. "Ought I to tell Ronald that everything is all right, and raise his hopes, until you actually do have the bank draft in your hand?"

"No," I decided swiftly, then at the sudden look of fright in his face, I amended my negative.

"I'm only guarding against the thousandth chance," I told him quickly. "I'm very sure you don't need to give the thing another anxious though. But you already have a plausible story to tell Ronald, without making a definite statement as to your prospects of rehabilitation, and I do not see why—"

Agrees With Her

"You are right," he answered quickly, and both his voice and his face showed that confidence in himself and his future was once more coursing in his veins. "I would rather not tell Ronald the real truth until I actually hold the money in my hand.

"But I am sure what you have planned to have me tell him will content him, or at least make him willing to go through with the things he has planned for Marion's entertainment. Poor boy! I wonder what he's thinking now. Pretty sad thoughts, I'm afraid."

"We soon shall be able to dispel them," I said, switching on the ignition key, and in another second we were again moving along the broad highway that leads into New Haven.

"You'll have to direct me," I said when we entered the city. "I'm not familiar with the streets."

"I'm all right to drive now," Mr. Brixton said. "And maybe I'd better. Ronald might be alarmed if he saw me in your car, and not driving."

Lemke's the Man

Rep William Lemke of North Dakota is the man The Union party is the organization Rev Fr Coughlin of Detroit and the radio is the approach Economic ills cry is the issue Reactionaries are the foe

A third party has been born It will make its appeal to everybody who isn't satisfied with the two major parties or any of the other previously existing minorities The net has been thrown wide and far

Possibly Dr Francis E Townsend's followers may be themselves be caught in it The remnants of Huey Long's Share the Wealth clubs are considered likely prospects Fr Coughlin's following in the National Union for Social Justice is expected to line up behind Lemke

Youth has been promised the opportunity to earn a decent living An attack on large incomes is promised Protection of property against unnecessary taxation is another promise

An attack on monopoly is promised Federal works under a vast conservation program are to be undertaken for the sake of furnishing jobs at prevailing wages Bureaucracy will be eliminated

The Union party will institute civil service in all government jobs if it is put into power It will provide a strong national defense restricted absolutely to defense It will stand committed to a high tariff It will make the United States self contained in all ways

Furthermore it will provide a living wage for all laborers and guarantee production at a profit to all farmers It will furnish liberal pensions for all the aged

In matters of money and banking it will follow the recommendations of Fr Coughlin thereby opening the way for a condition wherein all property indebtedness will be liquidated by the grace of government, which will be in complete control of all financial matters

These things the Union party will do if its candidate William Lemke is elected to the presidency next November according to its promises Unfortunately the promises represent the personal opinions of only a few men Rep Lemke moreover hasn't the slightest chance of being elected and he knows it The most he can do is to help defeat one of the two major party candidates The Union party assuming it is able to become a factor in the campaign will damage the major party from which it draws the most support

There is nothing to prevent the creation and activity of a third party—nothing that is but the practical judgment of men and women who realize that third parties are more likely to defeat their own purpose than they are to aid those purposes For better or worse the Union party has been created It may be active But if it turns out to be anything but a disappointment to its members there will be something new under the sun in national politics

Making Gestures

Perhaps as a gesture toward the large numbers of citizens fearing a dictatorship trend in government some Democrats are said to be considering proposing at their convention a constitutional amendment which would set up a single presidential term of six years With such an amendment guaranteeing that President Roosevelt could not seek a third term or that no successor could stay in office more than six years the Democrats presumably would be attempting to assure the country there can be no permanent dictatorships in this country

The proposal appears to be of doubtful value It might be difficult to build up a strong argument for any specific length for the presidential term yet on the other hand to fool proof arraignment of the existing practice easily could be made Instead there is much to be said for the custom of giving the President what might be called a four year probationary term and then leaving it to voters to decide whether he merits their trust for another like period Strong Presidents thus can be rewarded and weak ones shelved

More reassuring to those persons speculating about dictatorship trends would be the certainty that the Democrats would not seek ways and means of investing additional power in the federal government without receiving constitutional authorization Some talk of openly urging an amendment to the constitution has been heard but political considerations are likely to cause the talk to be soft pedaled in formal declarations

If Democrats sincerely want to stop dictatorship fears an unequivocal plank to that effect in their platform might be more convincing.

Last Chance To Be Heard.

The snow has fallen Al Smith has taken his walk sitting down with Painbridge Colby James A Reed Joseph B Fly and Daniel F Cohalan all formerly prominent Democrats joining him

Henceforth they will be outlaws New deal Democrats will shoot at them on sight for daring to refuse to accept Franklin D Roosevelt as the party's presidential nominee and for rejecting his philosophy of government

New dealers with an overwhelming majority of the Democratic party's numerical strength are in no mood to be bothered by the ire of a few old fashioned members They are as intolerant of the hurt feelings of their disaffected brethren as they have been of the criticism and counsel of all other opponents and friends They have set their course and they will stay on it regardless of where it leads them

Democrats who agree with Mr Smith when he objects to the Roosevelt leadership of the party possibly may find comfort in hearing a reassertion of his dissatisfaction They can find nothing else The point has been argued too long and too thoroughly to reveal any new facets at this late stage in preparations for the campaign

There has been a split in the Democratic party A handful of assertive independent thinkers are going to bolt The majority compliant as always will follow the leader That is the story as it is written now One or two chapters remain to be finished One of them will deal with the Democrats who let their last chance to be heard slip by—the ones who agreed with Al Smith but didn't have the courage to speak up before giving the new deal their tacit approval in the 1936 convention What is going to become of them?

Proposition

Action on a relief bill by the state house of representatives does not mean that the house has made its final judgment

It does mean that the house has submitted a proposition to the state senate In all probability the senate will rewrite the bill It will emerge in its final form late this month or early in July

The proposition as submitted by the house suggests a method of allocation of relief money for the latter half of 1936 Counties are divided into three classes urban semi urban and rural According to their class they would receive amounts which on the basis of their relief lists for April this year provide monthly payments of $9 to a family in a rural county $10 for a family in a semi urban county and $11 for a family in an urban county

Apparently the idea is to furnish an incentive to counties to reduce the number of families on relief since the monthly payments would increase if the families decreased The startlingly low monthly payments are an arithmetic postulation not the house of representatives judgment of what a proper and sufficient relief basis would be The idea is worth retaining whatever may be wrong with the figures Eventually some way will have to be found to secure legitimate relief cases against the encroachment of beneficiaries who are unwilling to stand on their own feet The house bill which has roused an outburst of criticism because it seemed unreasonably restrictive has given the senate a proposition which deserves careful consideration

Sleepy Time Down South.

The solid south usually dependable back log of Democratic voting strength in national elections will be the loser if as seems likely the national convention this week votes to substitute majority nominations for the traditional two thirds rule

Usually the south has controlled about one-third of the votes in Democratic conventions This year it will have approximately 41 per cent Southerners in congress thanks to the seniority rule are enjoying unaccustomed power and prestige It is possible they have been lulled into forgetting they are a minority

If the two thirds rule goes much of the influence of the south will go with it. The south is not in a position to nominate its own candidate but with a third of the convention votes it has been able to veto nominations obnoxious to southern sentiment The confidence of northern Democrats on the issue of the two thirds rule suggests that it must be sleepy time down south

The Next Congress

When the claims of all parties and minorities that they will elect more congressmen than there are seats to be filled are discounted it seems likely that the congress which convenes early next January will be much different from its predecessor which adjourned sine die last Saturday night

There probably will be less disposition to experiment with new ideas than was the case in the congresses elected in 1932 and 1934 Unless something happens congressmen probably will continue to be more aware of their traditional function and less inclined to abandon their prerogatives to the executive

Action produces reaction and no one denies that the hasty experimentation of the new deal made possible by congressional cooperation has brought about a disposition in legislators to proceed more slowly in the next few years In the session which ended Saturday night President Roosevelt was beginning to encounter stubborn resistance not only from Republicans but from congressmen of his own party Regardless of the outcome of the presidential election the next congress will not be an imitation of its two rubber stamp predecessors

Convention Studies Smith Message

Former Governor's Statement Creates Little Reaction Except One of Resentment, but It Dampens Reunion.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1936 by The Marion Star)

PHILADELPHIA, June 23—Al Smith's message created no appreciable reaction here except one of resentment among the delegates to the new deal party convention

For this is a convention in which the delegates for the most part are office holders or their henchmen To that extent it resembles the old Republican type of conventions dominated by a President up for renomination

The document signed by Al Smith and his four colleagues was of course not designed to change votes here but to let the Democratic voters throughout the country know that there is a serious difference of opinion among those leaders who choose to call themselves Democrats

The effect of the Smith message will be felt in the campaign and after the convention has adjourned Maybe the new dealers will try to answer the message and carry on an attack here against the signers of the telegram rather than against their Republican foes but such an emphasis would be bad strategy

The chances are the new dealers will minimize the importance of the Smith step and let it go at that There are to be sure weaknesses in the Smith message which will cause considerable discussion as for instance the failure of the message to list Woodrow Wilson along with Thomas Jefferson Andrew Jackson and Grover Cleveland as an exponent of the principles of the Democratic party There are still Wilson men who have not forgotten that James A Reed former senator from Missouri was an arch foe of President Wilson and that Judge Cohalan of New York was also allied with the group that fought the Wilson policies

As for Painbridge Colby who was secretary of state in the Wilson administration he of all persons should have protested against the omission of the name of America's great war President who was twice honored by the Democratic party and who had more to do with shaping the Democratic party's policies than any other Democrat in the last 40 years

But there may have been a reason for the omission of Mr Wilson's name which had no possible relationship to the esteem in which he was held by former Gov Smith or former Gov Ely or Mr Colby It may have been the fact that Mr Wilson favored a removal of artificial barriers to commerce and were he alive today he would be espousing the reciprocity policies of Secretary of State Cordell Hull himself an ardent Wilsonian

The document sent to the delegates by the five Democrats accepted instead the philosophy of George Peek and others who believe in economic isolation In that respect the message is identical with some of the expressions in the Republican platform adopted at Cleveland It foreshadows a turn by these five men to the candidacy of Gov Landon of Kansas

The bolt would have some effect on the trend of voting but whether it is ultimately going to take any votes away from Mr Roosevelt in addition to those already alienated from him depends on how active former Gov Smith and his group become in the campaign Certainly an occasional speech or telegram will hardly make votes For in the telegram sent by the Smith group to the convention there was no concentration on a single issue and to make votes it is necessary to have such an emphasis and a dramatization of it into understandable terms for the average voter

There can be no denying the fact on the other hand that the Smith pronouncement put a damper on convention spirits This was to have been a happy reunion of Roosevelt men confident of victory The theme song was to have been Happy Days are Here Again but when Alfred E Smith thrice governor of the most populous state of the union and standard bearer of his party announces a bolt and there is as a consequence a boring in on Roosevelt strength from the conservative side and a boring in by the Lemke O'Brien ticket of Father Coughlin from the radical or left wing side it is easy to comprehend why some concern is evident about the outcome of the presidential election in November

One thing seems certain—this campaign will have but one issue It will be for or against Roosevelt the man and his policies and the matter of whether he is or is not a genuine Democrat or whether Gov Landon is or is not a genuine Republican or a great executive or familiar with national policies will not cut much ice The Kansas governor if elected will be the beneficiary of anti new dealism

Behind the News

Mallon in Philadelphia for Democratic Convention

BY PAUL MALLON

PHILADELPHIA June 23—No one is going to be badly wounded in this battle over the two-thirds rule Apparently a gentlemanly if not pleasant contest has been more or less arranged

Four years ago at Chicago an eminent southern leader pulled Postmaster General Farley's arm one day and said Listen Jim you had better back down on that two-thirds rule stuff You are heading for trouble We will go along with you for President Roosevelt but not for that Mr Farley wisely postponed the fracas until this time

But if you back that same eminent southern leader off in a hotel lobby here now he will tell you Of course I am for the two-thirds rule and I expect to vote for it but I do not think I will make a speech for it Just between us I expect the rule to be defeated

He has not been near Farley's arm except to shake it

Practical Considerations

A lot of things have happened in the last four years to soften the opinion of the most practical southern politicos There is not much in the rule for them just now except tradition

It gave them a veto power over presidential nominees only in theory Only once in history has a candidate acquiring a majority failed to get two-thirds At the last convention their rule was used against them The eastern crowd held up the nominations of Mr Roosevelt for several ballots

Also the south now is in the saddle Men with that accent speak loud in the councils of the party and control practically all the posts of honor in congress Their states are getting federal considerations They have no fear of Roosevelt

There is in fact nothing left to fight for except tradition and no one can get up much steam about that in a new deal convention You may be sure Farley found out how matters stood before he mentioned the matter publicly

Note—There seems to be nothing in the rumor that Farley is abrogating the two-thirds rule to make Mr Roosevelt's renomination for a third term easier He was against the rule long before Mr Roosevelt had a first term and so were most Democratic politicians outside the south They saw it wreck many a convention Also Mr Roosevelt has not been elected for a second term yet Likewise Mr Farley is not noted for thinking that far ahead

Safety

An unofficial check of delegates indicates nearly 50 per cent are federal state or city office holders but there is one delegation in which you will not find many That is Tammany The New York state delegation I suppose is to be comprised 65 per cent of office holders until you get down to the list of Tammany names Then you find only a few congressmen

Incidentally also there seem to be fewer office holders in the southern delegations than elsewhere Georgia has only four

However Mr Farley knows most of the 1600 delegates and alternates by their first names whether or not they are office holders There will be no trouble here which he cannot handle

Dissension

The story has been spread through the convention that Agriculture Secretary Wallace feels slighted because no one asked him to write the agriculture plank Four or five others are supposed to have been doing the bulk of the work on it

Where the yarn came from is not certain but nobody had to listen hard to hear it Incontrovertible sources indicate that the agriculture secretary is in no way displeased with the plank and has made suggestions about it

The harmony here is unanimous Farley saw to that

Switchboard

Mr Roosevelt's inside man at this convention is one who rarely gets his name in the papers He is that tall thin fellow you see occasionally walking about two steps behind Postmaster General Farley All Washingtonians recognize him as the assistant secretary of the interior Charles West the White House liaison man with congress and all insiders know he is the man to see if you want to get an idea to Mr Roosevelt first

West is playing the same role with the convention that he played with congress He is the contact between the platform writer Senator Wagner and the White House He is the man at the telephone

Convention Kaleidoscope

Senator Copeland and Liberty Leaguers Shouse and Raskob did no exactly take a walk on this convention They merely rode on through The three (not together) were on trains bearing convention followers from Washington during the last two days but did not pause to look out of the window at the convention hall They rode on through to New York

It costs $3 50 to take the 33d degree in Roosevelt-ism You can be a Roosevelt Nominator for $1 you can Go Forward with Roosevelt for $1 a convention book costs $2 00 you can be a Roosevelt Courier for $1

New York Notes

O O McIntyre's Diary of Fact, Fancy and Folks

NEW YORK June 23 — Critics sometimes hail a flop play with merry essays and audiences often go out chuckling But to me such a failure is heart rending To see a play stricken by ineptitude fall and fall and linger on dying through a slow last act There is a damp chill to the audience

And he glazed eyes of the actors are like starving ship-wrecked wretches on a raft. Almost always there is one dauntless old timer forcing her points fighting to the last with strident voice hopeless but shouting on while the others sink into the death apathy

Heart rending such a spectacle because one knows no matter how bad how silly how incredible the play and vapid the talk some author has spent on it days and nights of hard thinking the best he knew was put into it and actors have tried for weeks to animate his poor thing with palestric gestures and smiles

In the background too fairly wringing his hands is some poor fool of a manager who has been hypnotized out of thousands of dollars He has been flattered lied to cajoled to ruin And an audience of hypocrites rejoice at the calamity while actors sneak to unpaid for hotel rooms to forget

For several seasons somehow the theater audiences have been usually more interesting to me than what goes on on the stage The blatant lady with the smaragdined finger pointing to celebrities and talking out loud The dowager in the lounge puffing a small cigar It was Emily Dickenson I think who wrote The show is not the show but they who go At first nights the theater enthusiasm is always false Pumped out to give the impression they know the star Every performance reveals a study in the emotional laxity—pop eyes open mouth and sudden starts The true aristocrats are the Chinese the American Indian and the Ritz waiter They never show emotion
